London, August 11.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland, and another from Flanders.

Dantzick, August 2.

ADVICES from Riga, Kiow, and Smolensko, give an Account, that the Czar having imbarked his Infantry on board his Fleet, has made Descents at three several Places on the River Daria, where the Troops are intrenching themselves till the Horse come up to join them, by Land, in order to march together to attack the Tartars, who 'tis said, are posted to the Number of 40000 in difficult Passes on the Mountains, and have burnt and destroyed the Country for above 30 Leagues, which obliges the Muscovites to have all their Provisions brought to them from Astracan; and therefore as soon as they were landed, they ordered all their Gallies back to Casan and Astracan to take in Victuals. These Advices add, that an Ambassadour from the Sophy of Persia is arrived in the Czar's Camp, to desire Succour against the Rebels, for which the Sophy offers an Extent of Country as far as Derbent, bordering on Georgia; but the Czar insists, that the Province of Georgia, possessed by Christians of the Greek Church, should be given up to him. Several Workmen skilled in Mines are lately gone from Olonitz for Astracan, and are to have double Wages allowed them for their labouring in the Golden Mines on the Frontiers of Georgia; on which Occasion, the Director of the Iron Mines at Olonitz having complained to Prince Menzikoff, that the Iron Works must stand still for Want of Workmen in the Room of those who are gone to Astracan, the Russian Resident in this City is ordered to hire a certain Number of Labourers in these Parts, who are to be sent to Olonitz. Four Regiments of Foot of 1800 Men each, that were in Quarters near Neugarten, are marching towards Astracan, to reinforce the Russian Army. The Czar's Orders for preventing Correspondence is so strictly executed, that no Post dare receive any Letter but what is directed either to the Czar or his Council.

Copenhagen, Aug. 4. A Person arrived here from Petersbourg reports, that he saw the Russian Fleet about 10 or 12 Leagues off of Revel, and that it is sailed to the Latitude of Dantzick; nevertheless, our two Frigates that are cruizing in those Seas have only sent Advice, that the Fleet keeps off of Revel.

Paris, Aug. 15. 'The Marriage of the Prince 'Don Carlos with Mademoiselle de Beaujollois, is 'declared at Versailles; on which Occasion 'that Princess has received congratulatory Com'pliments from the Duke Regent and Nobility; 'and 'tis reported she is to set out for Madrid 'in October next, and be brought up in that 'Court to the Satisfaction of their Catholick Ma'jesties. 'Tis said the following Circumstance, 'among others, has contributed to the Mareschal 'de Villeroy's Exile. - - - The Duke Regent went 'on Sunday Evening last to wait upon the King 'in his Closet, and telling his Majesty he had 'somewhat to disclose to him in private, the Duke 'of Bourbon and Count de Clermont retired 'that Moment, but the Mareschal de Villeroy 'remaining, the Duke of Orleans repeated - - - that 'what he had to say to the King he was to tell it 'to his Majesty alone; the Mareschal answered, 'in Quality of Governour, that could not be" ... 'The Duke Regent having repeated his Instances 'without gaining upon the Mareschal, made his 'Obeissance to the King, and withdrawing, told 'his Majesty he would take another Opportu'nity to impart what he had to say to him. The 'next Day, the 10th Instant, at Four in the Af'ternoon, the Mareschal de Villeroy went down 'from his Apartments to those of the Duke of 'Orleans; but M. de la Farre, Captain of the 'Guards to his Royal Highness, met the Mares'chal, and told him the Duke Regent would not 'be interrupted, and at the same time gave the 'Mareschal a Lettre de Cachet to retire from 'Court; the Mareschal was somewhat surprized in 'receiving it, but told the Marquess it should 'be instantly obeyed, only he first desired that 'the Duke of Orleans would allow him the Fa'vour to speak to him of a Matter of Conse'quence; the Marquess de la Farre reported this 'Request to the Duke Regent, who returned 'Answer - - - That he could not at that time give 'Audience to the Mareschal: Who thereupon, 'obeyed the Lettre de Cachet. It is generally re'ported, that a Bed of Justice will shortly be held 'at Versailles, at which the King will be declared 'to be in his State of Majority; the Duke of Or'leans, to be Lieutenant General and Constable of 'the Kingdom, with the Survivorship to descend 'to the Duke of Chartres; the Duke of Bourbon 'to be advanced to some new Dignity; the Duke 'du Maine, reinstated in all his Honours and Pri'vileges, and the Cardinal du Bois to be first Mi'nister; that the Parliament should not assemble 'at Versailles as a Body, but by Deputation on'ly, and that Deputations should likewise be sent 'thither of the Chamber of Accompts, the Court 'of Aides, and Courts of the Mint. The Duke 'Regent having presented a List of Names to the 'King for his Majesty to chuse a Governour, he 'made choice of the Duke de Charost, who on the '13th Instant was accordingly declared Governour 'to his Majesty, upon the same Foot as enjoyed 'by the Mareschal de Villeroy. Three Days ago 'Donna Louisa, one of the Under-waiters be'longing to the Infanta Queen, was married at 'the Chapel of Versailles to one of the King of 'Spain's chief Valets de Chambre; on which 'Occasion the young King presented the Bride with 'a Diamond Cross worth above 10000 Livres.
